To whom it may concern.

Matthew has been working as a maths tutor to my son for several months. He is always punctual and reliable, arriving in plenty of time to begin the lesson and often extends the session to ensure that my son has completely understood.

He is very personable and relates well to my son. His patience and clear explanations have helped to boost my son's confidence and understanding of the subject. He demonstrates a real enthusiasm for the subject and is able to relay this enthusiasm to my son.

Matthew comes well prepared for the lessons, ensuring that the topics he covers are in line with those covered at college. He reviews the progress made and is able to identify the areas where my son needs most support, spending time researching the syllabus and exam specifications to ensure his teaching is correctly focussed. He has helped my son to develop a better understanding of the subject and to become more logical and structured in his studies.

Matthew's calm, patient approach has ensured that my son is able to approach his exams with more confidence and with a deeper understanding of the subject.

I have no hesitation in recommending Matthew for employment.

Yours faithfully,

K. A. Dixon
